

Managing education and business online safety

Description

Managing education and business online safety

Managing education and business online safety is hugely important. According to eSafety research, one in five young Australians aged 8 to 17 years reported being socially excluded, threatened or abused online. A Psychology Today report suggests up to 15% of adults have experienced cyber-bullying in some form.

Parents, schools and businesses have an important role to play to ensure that staff, students, and employees are safe from bullying behaviour. This is especially relevant for boarding schools, home-schooling, and online school educators, where many rural, regional and remote students spend their school terms.

•

• Tips for managing online safety

Tip	Description
Clearly define inappropriate online behaviour	Educate individuals through workshops or training sessions on what constitutes inappropriate online behaviour and the consequences thereof.
Establish consequences for inappropriate behaviour	Implement and enforce clear consequences for inappropriate online behaviour to deter future incidents.
Set rules for online resource usage	Establish clear rules governing the use of online resources, including social media, forums, and comment sections, and communicate them regularly to staff, students, parents, and employees.
Bring in cyber-safety experts	Invite experts to provide insights and guidance on cyber-safety practices through presentations or workshops for staff, students, employees, and parents.
Consider restrictions on resource usage during school or work hours	Evaluate the necessity of limiting access to certain online resources during school or work hours to minimise distractions and ensure productivity.
Be mindful of age restrictions	Educators should be aware of age restrictions on platforms requiring account creation, such as social media sites and forums, to ensure compliance with age-appropriate usage.
Appoint cyber safety officers	Designate cyber safety officers within staff who can provide assistance, including anonymously, for addressing online issues and promoting a safe online environment.
Discourage use of anonymous apps	Encourage students to avoid using anonymous apps that lack registration requirements to mitigate risks associated with anonymity.
Provide training on identifying dangerous apps	Offer training to staff, employees, students, and parents on identifying and avoiding dangerous or unsafe apps commonly used by individuals.

Maintain ongoing communication on social media usage

Implement processes for addressing mental health issues

Utilise parental monitoring resources for computers and devices (Educators)

Foster open dialogue with staff, employees, students, and parents to discuss both positive and negative aspects of social media use, promoting responsible online behaviour.

Establish training and procedures to recognize and respond to early signs of mental health issues among staff, employees, or students manifested through online behaviour.

Educators should familiarise themselves with parental monitoring tools for computers and devices and utilise them appropriately to safeguard students' online activities.

Further resources

- eSafety Commissioner: Resources for educators.
- National Australia Bank: Building employee awareness of cyber safety
- Queensland Country Life: Boarding administrators continually training to manage bullying
- Kids Helpline
- ehespace provides free online and telephone support and counselling to young people 12 – 25 and their families and friends.
- Stymie: Report school or sports club bullying
- eSafety Commissioner: Report abuse
- eSafety Commissioner: Report cyber abuse to social media services
- Dolly's Dream: Get help
- eSafety Commissioner: Counselling and support services
- Susan Mclean Cyber Safety Solutions

• Explore more of our resources

- News
November 4, 2024

Telstra 3G shutdown is now complete

- News
October 25, 2024

Phones using the 3G network to call triple zero will be disconnected on 28 October 2024

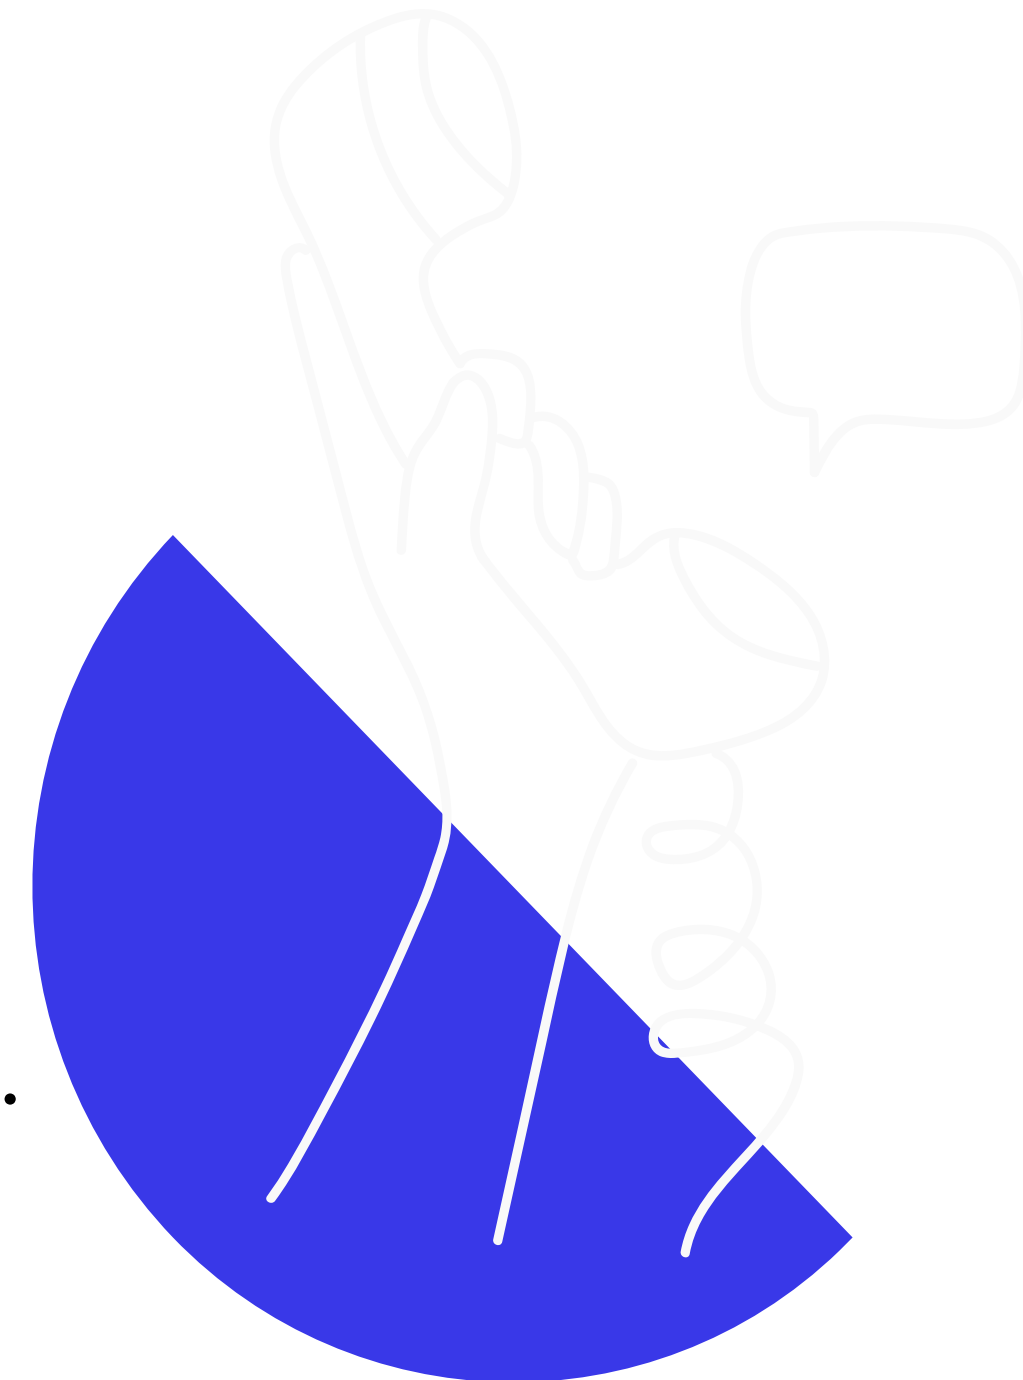

- News
October 25, 2024

NBN Co accelerating higher speed tiers in September 2025

- Guides
October 17, 2024

Connectivity definitions

- Back to resources

Didn't find the answers you were after?

Chat to us on our hotline with one of our team members and let's get the conversation started. If we don't answer, we'll get back to you in no time at all.

1300 081 029

Category

1. Guides

Date

27/08/2025

Date Created

12/03/2024